Black mirror Series: A collection of episodes from the third season of the television series "Black Mirror." An anthology series that taps into peoples collective unease with the modern world. "Black Mirror" is Charlie Brooker's biting satire on technology and modern media. Over the last ten years, technology has transformed almost every aspect of our lives before we've had time to stop and question it. In every home; on every desk; in every palm - a plasma screen; a monitor; a Smartphone - a black mirror of our 21st Century existence. Our grip on reality is shifting. We worship at the altars of Google and Apple. We have access to all the information in the world, but no brain space left to absorb anything longer than a 140-character tweet. "Black Mirror" is a hybrid of "The Twilight Zone" and "Tales of the Unexpected" which taps into our contemporary unease about our modern world. Contents: Episode 1: Nosedive — Episode 2: Playtest — Episode 3: Shut up and dance — Episode 4: San Junipero — Episode 5: Men against lines — Episode 6: Hated in the nation.; Created and written by Charlie Brooker. Cherif Keita, the director, a West African who resides in the U.S., takes us along his eight-year journey on the footsteps of two families, the Wilcoxes and the Dubes, one of white American missionaries, and the other, Zulus from Inanda, whose friendship in the late 19th century, stands as a major landmark in the struggle for Black liberation and Democracy in South Africa. Along the way, the scholar-director, Keita, brings to both families some lost pieces of their history and makes them reconnect after losing touch with each other for ninety years. However, during his eight years of going back and forth between the U.S. and South Africa, Cherif Keita never stopped asking himself why he, a West African Muslim and a professor of Francophone literature, had to be the one piecing together the story of two Protestant missionaries in the distant land of South Africa. The answer comes to him the day he discovers that he had been chosen to go on this historic and spiritual quest by two 'unappeased' souls in the town where he lives in Minnesota. On Saturday, August 31, 2013, Nokutela Mdima Dube was welcomed into the pantheon of the finest South African liberation heroes, when a gravestone was officially unveiled for her, after she had suffered for almost a century the indignity of total oblivion in an unmarked grave in Johannesburg. All to often, unfortunately, the history of women is reduced to a footnote in the epic of brave men. In Africa, even that footnote disappears when a woman has not been able to bear a child. Remembering Nokutela [uKukhumbula uNokutela] is the 4-year long journey of an African-born US director, Professor Cherif Keita, to rescue Nokutela Dube (1873-1917), a forgotten woman pioneer of the liberation movement in South Africa from the Purgatory of history, almost a century after her death at the age of 44. Directed by Cherif Keita. In English and Zulu with English subtitles.

When the most powerful lobbyist in Florida discovers that the nanny has sexually abused his daughter, he harnesses his extraordinary political power to pass the toughest sex offender laws in the nation. The film chronicles his crusade, and its impact on the lives of several of the 800,000 people forced to live under the kinds of laws he has championed. The film interweaves intimate portraits of men and women who have been branded sex offenders with the heartbreaking stories of those who have suffered sexual abuse. It is a film that pushes viewers toward an uncomfortable place, requiring them to walk in the shoes of those who have survived sexual abuse, but to still bear witness to the experiences of those we revile. Written and directed by David Feige. In English, with English closed captioning for the deaf and hearing impaired.
